PROJECT ENGINEER

Stirrett Johnsen, Inc. is seeking a Project Engineer to join our team. The project engineer assists one or more project managers with the administration of the construction project from beginning to end.

Stirrett Johnsen, headquartered in Silverdale, WA, is a locally owned mechanical contractor. Projects include hospitals/health care facilities, office towers, high-rise living spaces, industrial buildings and community landmarks. Our people design and construct safe and innovative plumbing and mechanical systems to meet the specific needs of each project. We rely on a culture of integrity, collaboration, hard work, and attention to detail to achieve consistently successful outcomes and long-term relationships.

Primary Responsibilities

- Assist Project Manager(s) with administration of construction projects
- Read and understand specs and details
- Assist in system design and technical problem solving
- Prepare and maintain logs and progress spreadsheets related to budget, schedule and other aspects of construction projects.
- Compile project closeout documents and warranties as requested by Project Manager
- Positively represent the Company when communicating with the client, consultants, suppliers, and subcontractors

Qualifications

- Experience in the plumbing industry desired
- Communication skills and interpersonal abilities
- Exceptional skills in organization, diligence and attention to detail
- Proficiency with MS Office Suite and Bluebeam
- Time management ability
- Able to multitask
- Degree in mechanical engineering preferred

What We Offer:

At Stirrett Johnsen, we build long-term relationships. On-going professional development through on-the-job learning and specialized training is key to our teams' success.

We are an Equal Opportunity Employer providing:

- Competitive pay
- Profit-sharing
- Paid vacation, sick and holidays
- 401(k) and retirement matching
- Health, vision and dental insurance
- Life Insurance

Annualized pay range - $52,000 to $72,800
